A Personalized Message for Your Student

Having Problems Deciding Your Major?

Dear Students and Parents,

As your students transition back to campus, they are often faced with the challenge of deciding on their major. This decision can be difficult, and it's important to provide them with the support they need. Here are some tips on how to help your students make an informed decision:

1. Encourage them to explore their interests: Help them identify their passions and what topics they enjoy learning about. This can help guide their major choice.
2. Consider their strengths: Help them identify their strengths and weaknesses. This can help them choose a major that aligns with their abilities.
3. Talk to academic advisors: Encourage them to speak with their academic advisors to get guidance on their academic goals and majors.
4. Research the career options: Help them research the career options available to them with different majors. This can help them make a decision that aligns with their future goals.

Remember, it's important to support your students as they navigate this decision. Your guidance and encouragement can make a significant difference in their college journey.

 bourbon@mercer.edu | Senior Director of Academic Services